Negociation with France.

CONTINUED.

No. 45.—Concluded.

With reſpect to ſeveral of the poſitions ſtated in the note, and grounded on the idea of the 10th article being executed in its literal ſenſe, they call for ſome obſervations. By the 10th article of the treaty of Amiens, the iſland of Malta was to be reſtored by his majeſty to the order of St. John, upon certain conditions. The evacuation of the iſland, at a ſpecified period, formed a part of theſe conditions; and if the other ſtipulations had been in a due courſe of execution, his majeſty would have been bound, by the terms of the treaty, to have ordered his forces to evacuate the iſland; but theſe conditions muſt be conſidered as being all of equal effect; and if any material parts of them ſhould have been found incapable of execution, or if the execution of them ſhould from any circumſtances have been retarded, his majeſty would be warranted in delaying the evacuation of the iſland until ſuch time as the other conditions of the article could be effected; or until ſome new arrangement could be concluded which ſhould be judged ſatisfactory by the contracting parties. The refuſal of Ruſſia to accede to the arrangement, except on condition that the Malteſe langue ſhould be aboliſhed; the ſilence of the court of Berlin, with reſpect to the invitation that has been made to it, in conſequence of the treaty, to become a guaranteeing power; the abolition of the Spaniſh priories, in defiance of the treaty to which the king of Spain was a party; the declaration of the Portugueſe government, of their intention to ſequeſtrate the property of the Portugueſe priory, as forming a part of the Spaniſh langue unleſs the property of the Spaniſh priories was reſtored to them; theſe circumſtances would have been ſufficient, without any other ſpecial grounds, to have warranted his majeſty in ſuſpending the evacuation of the iſland. The evacuation of Tarentum and Brunduſium is in no reſpect connected with that of Malta. The French government were bound to evacuate the kingdom of Naples, by their treaty of peace with the king of Naples, at a period antecedent to that at which this ſtipulation was carried into effect.

The French government were bound likewiſe, by engagements with the emperor of Ruſſia, to reſpect the independence of the kingdom of Naples; but even admitting that the departure of the French troops from Tarentum depended ſolely on the article of the treaty of Amiens, their departure is, by the terms of the treaty, to take place at the ſame period as the other evacuations in Europe; namely, one month after the ratification of the definitive treaty; at which period both Porto Ferrajo and Minorca were evacuated by his majeſty's forces; whereas the troops of his majeſty were in no caſe bound to evacuate the iſland of Malta antecedent to the period of three months after the ratification of the definitive treaty; even in that event, it muſt be conſidered as depending upon the other parts of the arrangement being in a courſe of execution. With reſpect to the aſſertion in the note, that the Neapolitan troops were to form the garriſon of Malta, until the period when the arrangements relative to the order could be carried into effect, it will appear, by a reference to the article, that by the preliminary paragraph, the iſland was to be reſtored to the order upon the condition of the ſucceeding ſtipulations, and that it was only from the period when the reſtitution to the order had actually taken place, that by the 12th paragraph the Neapolitan troops were to form a part of the garriſon.

The undersigned has thus ſtated, with all the frankneſs which the importance of the ſubject appears to require, the ſentiments of his majeſty on the note delivered to him by General Andreoſſi, and on the points in diſcuſſion between the two countries.

His majeſty is willing to indulge the hope, that the conduct of the French government on this occaſion may be influenced by principles ſimilar to thoſe which have invariably influenced his own. That as far as poſſible all cauſes of diſtruſt, and every impediment to a good underſtanding between the two countries, may be completely and effectually removed, and that the peace may be conſolidated on a ſecure and laſting foundation.

The undersigned requests gen. Andreoſſi to accept the aſſurances of his high conſideration.

Paris, March 17, 1803.

My Lord,

I called yeſterday on M. de Talleyrand to converſe with him on the ſubject of what had paſſed on Sunday laſt at the Thuilleries. He had been ſince that day ſo fully occupied with his expeditions to different foreign courts, that I had no opportunity of ſeeing him ſooner. I told him, that I had been placed by the firſt conſul in a ſituation which could neither ſuit my public nor my private feelings.—That I went to the Thuilleries to pay my reſpects to the firſt conſul, and to preſent my countrymen, but not to treat of political ſubjects; and that unleſs I had the aſſurance from him, that I ſhould not be expoſed to a repetition of the ſame diſagreeable circumſtance, I ſhould be under the neceſſity of diſcontinuing my viſits to the Thuilleries. M. de Talleyrand aſſured me, that it was very far from the firſt conſul's intention to diſtreſs me: but, he had felt himſelf perſonally inſulted by the charges which were brought againſt him by the Engliſh government; and that it was incumbent upon him to take the firſt opportunity of exculpating himſelf in the preſence of the miniſters of the different powers of Europe. He aſſured me that nothing ſimilar would occur.

(Signed) WHITWORTH.

The Right Honorable Lord Hawkesbury, &c. &c.

(No. 47.)

Is an extract of a letter from lord Whitworth to lord Hawkesbury, dated Paris, March 18, 1803; the only material point in this diſpatch is a remark of the Engliſh ambaſſador to Talleyrand, viz. That by our poſſeſſion of Malta, France was not threatened, but the reverſe was the caſe, ſhould the acceſs to Egypt be opened by its evacuation.

(No. 48.)

Letter from lord Hawkesbury to lord Whitworth, dated Downing ſtreet, 22d March, 1803. His lordſhip ſays: "I have it in command to ſignify to you his majeſty's pleaſure, that you take the earlieſt opportunity to repreſent to monſieur de Talleyrand, the ſurpriſe with which his Majeſty has learnt the conduct which the firſt conſul had obſerved towards your excellency in the inſtance to which that diſpatch refers; and you will add, that as his majeſty has a right to expect that his ambaſſador ſhould be treated with the reſpect and attention due to the dignity of the ſovereign whom he repreſents, it will be impoſſible for you to preſent yourſelf on any days of ceremony to the firſt conſul, unleſs you receive an aſſurance that you will never be expoſed to a repetition of the treatment which you experienced on the occaſion."

(No. 49)

Contains the following note:

The undersigned general of diviſion, ambaſſador and miniſter plenipotentiary from the French republic, has laid before his government the note addreſſed to him by his excellency lord Hawkesbury. He has received orders to make the following anſwer to the obſervations therein contained.

The object of this note appears to be to explain his Britannic Majeſty's meſſage; and to give ſome elucidations which had been demanded reſpecting the execution of the treaty of Amiens.

The firſt conſul will not make any complaint relative to the extraordinary and unexpected aſſertion of this act iſſued by his Britannic Majeſty. Not one of them is founded.

(No. 50.)

Dowing Street, April 4, 1803.

My Lord,

It is become eſſential, that the diſcuſſions which have been for ſome time ſubſiſting between his Majeſty and the French government ſhould be brought to an iſſue within as ſhort a time as is conſiſtent with the deliberation which muſt be given to objects of ſo much importance.

The laſt note preſented by Gen. Andreoſſi, in the name of his government, in anſwer to my note of the 15th of laſt month, evades all explanation, and even all diſcuſſion, of the points of which complaint has been made by his Majeſty.

If the French government ſhould ſeriouſly intend to perſiſt in this courſe of proceeding there can be no hopes of a ſucceſsful termination to the preſent negociation. It is important, therefore, that you ſhould aſcertain diſtinctly, in the firſt inſtance, whether they are diſpoſed to enter in explanation on the points on which his Majeſty has complained, and to come to ſuch an arragement as may be calculated to adjuſt the differences at preſent ſubſiſting between the two countries; and for this purpoſe you will preſent a note to the effect of that which is herewith incloſed. It is poſſible that the French government may continue to evade all diſcuſſion on the points in queſtion, and confine themſelves to a categorical demand, that Malta ſhould be immediately evacuated. In that caſe, it his Majeſty's pleaſure, that you ſhould declare the impoſſibility of the relations of amity continuing to ſubſiſt between the two countries, and the neceſſity that you will be under of leaving Paris within a certain time. But if, on the other hand, they ſhould ſhew a readineſs to enter into diſcuſſion, and to give reaſonable ſatisfaction and explanation, it is important that you ſhould be informed, without loſs of time, of the ſentiments of his Majeſty's government as to what might be conſidered as an equitable adjuſtment of the differences between the two governments at the moment.

I have, therefore, by his Majeſty's command, incloſed the project of an arrangement, which, under the preſent circumſtances, would meet the ideas of his Majeſty's government; which would afford ſecurity for thoſe objects which are conſidered as endangered by the unequivocal diſcloſure of the views of the Firſt Conſul, and which, at the ſame time, might entirely ſave the honour of the French government. I am, &c.

HAWKESBURY.

His Excellency Lord Whitworth, &c.

(Firſt Incloſure referred to in No. L.)

The undersigned, His Britannic Majeſty's Ambaſſador Extraordinary, has received the orders of his Court to make the following communication to the French Government.

His majeſty has perceived, with great regret, that the French Government continue to withhold all ſatisfaction and explanation on the points on which he has complained and that at the time when they evade all diſcuſſion on the ſubject of his repreſentations, they perſiſt in their requiſition that the Iſland of Malta ſhould be forthwith evacuated by his forces.—His majeſty can never ſo far forget what is due to himſelf, and to his people, as to acquieſce in ſuch a courſe of proceeding. He has therefore commanded the underſigned to aſcertain diſtinctly from the French Government, whether they are determined to perſevere in withholding all ſatisfaction and explanation upon the points on which his Majeſty has complained, or whether they are diſpoſed, without delay to give ſuch ſatisfaction and explanation upon the preſent ſtate of affairs, as may lead to an arrangement, which may be calculated to adjuſt the differences at preſent ſubſiſting between the two Governments.

It is his majeſty's anxious deſire that by adopting this mode of proceeding, an end may be put to that ſtate of ſuſpence and uncertainty which muſt be injurious to the intereſt of both countries.

Lateſt Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, May 25.

Private intelligence from France ſtates, that the cordon of 20,000 Auſtrians, on the frontiers of Italy is complete, but orders have been ſent for 15,000 more troops to join it. This had offended Murat, who had demanded new reinforcements from France. Not only the Italian troops, but the French conſcripts deſert in bands of 20 or 30, over to the Auſtrians. Generals Verdier, Pully and Florella, agree only in their hatred to Murat. The demand of occupying Sicily with French troops has been refuſed for the third time.

A letter from Algiers, dated April 25, ſays, Mr. Falcon, the Britiſh Conſul, has been expoſed to the moſt eminent dangers. An officer of the Regency and a party of guards ſummoned him to open his houſe, the domeſtics fled, the houſe was broke open and two Turkiſh women found in it, were condemned to receive each 500 blows with a ſtick. One of the ſlaves having made a confeſſion which criminated the Conſul and his Secretary, they were both ſeized, ſent on board a veſſel and compelled immediately to put to ſea.

Last Friday, at three o'clock, the following Meſſage was delivered by ſeveral of the Orators of Government to the Senate, the Legiſlative Body, and the Tribunate:—

MESSAGE.

Saint Cloud, May 20.

The Ambaſſador of England has been recalled; compelled by this circumſtance, the Ambaſſador of the Republic has quitted a country where he could no longer hear the language of peace.

At this deciſive moment the government ſubmits to your view, and it will ſubmit to the view of France and of Europe, its firſt relations with the Britannic Miniſtry, the negociations which were terminated by the treaty of Amiens, and the new diſcuſſions which ſeem to finiſh by an abſolute rupture.

The preſent age and poſterity will there ſee all that it has done to put an end to the calamities of war, and with what moderation and what patience it has laboured to prevent their return.

Nothing has been able to interrupt the courſe of the projects formed to rekindle diſcord between the two nations. The treaty of Amiens had been negociated amidſt the clamours of a party hoſtile to Peace. Scarcely was it concluded, when it was the object of bitter cenſure. It was repreſented as fatal to England, becauſe it was not diſgraceful to France. Soon after, alarms were diſſeminated; dangers were pretended, on which was eſtabliſhed the neceſſity of a ſtate of Peace, ſuch as to be a permanent ſignal of new hoſtilities. There were kept in reſerve, and hired, thoſe vile miſcreants, who had torn the boſom of their country, and who were intended to tear it anew. Vain calculations of hatred! We are no longer that France which was diviſed by factions, and buffeted by ſtorms; but France reſtored to internal laws, and ready to fall, with her whole weight, upon whatever foreign ſtate may dare to attack her, and to unite with the banditti whom an atrocious policy would once more caſt upon her ſhores to organize pillage and aſſaſſinations.

At length an unexpected meſſage, all at once, terrifies England with imaginary armaments in France and Batavia, and ſuppoſes the exiſtence of important diſcuſſions which divided the two governments, while no ſuch diſcuſſion was known to the French government.

Immediately formidable armaments took place on the coaſts, and in the ports of Great Britain; the ſea is covered with her ſhips of war; and it is in the midſt of theſe preparations that the Cabinet of London demands of France the abrogation of a fundamental article of the treaty of Amiens.

They wanted, they ſaid, new guarantees; and they deſpiſed the ſanctity of treaties, the execution of which is the firſt of guarantees which nations can give to each other.

In vain did France invoke that faith which has been ſworn; in vain did ſhe appeal to the forms received among nations; in vain did ſhe conſent to ſhut her eyes to the actual non execution of the article of the treaty of Amiens, from which England pretended to releaſe herſelf: in vain was ſhe willing to delay taking a definitive reſolution until Spain and Batavia, both of them contracting parties, could have manifeſted their diſpoſition: in vain, in ſhort, did ſhe propoſe to requeſt the mediation of the powers who had been invited to guarantee, and who, in effect, did guarantee the ſtipulation required to be abrogated.

Every propoſition was rejected, and the demands of England became more imperious and more abſolute.

It was not in the principles of the government to yield to menace; it was not in their power to bend the majeſty of the French people to laws preſcribed to them with forms ſo haughty and ſo new. Had they done ſo, they would have conſecrated in favor of England the right of annulling, at her ſole pleaſure, all the ſtipulations which bind her towards France. It would have authoriſed her to demand from France new guarantees on the ſlighteſt alarm, which ſhe might have thought proper to pretend; and hence two new principles would have been placed in the public code of Great Britain, by the ſide question whether the truth could be given in evidence as a justification was decided in the negative by Chief Justice Lewis.

On Tuesday the cause was advocated by Mr. Attorney Gen. Spencer, and his Foot—and very ably defended by Mr.
Van Vechten, Albany, and Mr. Van Ness of this city. Judge Lewis, in his charge, confined the jury to very narrow limits. He stated, that the only enquiry for them to make, was, whether Croswell was the publisher of the para graph, and whether the inuendoes were truly set forth. The jury retired about 7 o'clock on Tuesday evening, and re turned a verdict of guilty, at eight next morning. As the whole transaction is to come before the Supreme Court in August next, we deem it improper to enlarge on the subject at present. A fair and correct statement will be laid before the public in due season.

The following is the paragraph which gave rise to the indictment:

"Holt says, the burthen of the Federal song is that Mr. Jefferson paid Callender for writing against the late administration. This is wholly false. The charge is explicitly this:—Jefferson paid Callender for calling Washington a traitor a robber, and a perjurer—For calling Adams a hoary headed incendiary: and for most grossly slandering the private characters of men, who he well knew were virtuous. These charges, not a democratic editor has yet dared, or ever will dare to meet in an open and manly discussion."

The other indictment is to be tried at the next circuit.

THURSDAY, JULY 28.

How little do they know of the world who feel surprised at the enormous reams of paper which, daubed with democratic and jacobin ink, deluge this continent from Maine to Georgia. "Scandal (says Tom Browne) is a never-failing vehicle for dulness." John Wilkes on reading one of Churchills Satires exclaimed, "It must succeed, for "it is at once personal and political." The crude trash of Paine would have died silently in the huckster, the snuff, the butter, and the cheese shops, if the libeller had not given a lift to the author.

(Courier.)

We have received a few numbers of Cobbett's Weekly Register for May. In one of the 14th May, we find, among a mass of remarks, on the politics of the country, some very passionate observations on the principles of stock jobbing in London, and on the influence which France possesses in consequence thereof. Alluding to the impositions passed on the Mayor, &c. he proceeds: "What must we think of a nation which has been disturbed to the remotest corners of its territory, by a mere waggish trick played off on the Mayor of one of its cities, and a second time by a paragraph in one of its newspapers? These are most alarming symptoms.
They prove the body politic to be in a state of fearful feebleness. Its nerves are shattered. It starts and trembles at every report. The events of the last week have, we fear, stamped the character of the Bri tish public forever, or at least till some great and strong, and, perhaps, violent remedy be adopted for the cure of the money loving malady, which now weighs us down to the earth. What that remedy will be, or whence to come, we know not; but this we venture to assert, that England cannot, with its present feelings, long continue to be an independent nation. Our readers will do us the justice to acknowledge, that we long ago predicted that it would be on the side of the funds which France would first attack us. We then stated, that, with our present funded debt, it was impossible to maintain public credit, while there was a power who could raise and sink our funds at its pleasure. It is absolutely impossible; and therefore that debt must be destroyed, or we must by some means or other get rid of that menacing power, which France has acquired over us, and which she now exercises with so much address and insolence on her part, and with so much folly and cowardice on ours."

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY on the 10th of July, a Negro man named LEWIS: he is 22 years of age, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, well set, dark complexion; has a scar on his forehead which, I think, comes down between his eyes; is bow legg'd, and has a scar on one of his feet, between the toes, occasioned by the cut of an ax: he can read and write a little, has a very bold look, talks free and sensibly, and, at times, assumes a confidence when speaking, that would induce some to suppose that what he said was the truth: he speaks Dutch a little, and I expect has a pass, as he been in Alexandria where he went under the name of Lewis Hurley. When he eloped he had on a long, blue cloth coat, red waistcoat, and reddish coloured pantaloons, a high crown'd hat, band and buckle; I believe his other clothing were home made. The above reward will be given for securing him in any jail, so that I get him again, on giving information to Messrs. S. Croudson and Co. Alexandria, with reasonable charges if bro't home.

Fifteen Dollars Reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, in the month of July, 1802, about the 28th or 30th day, a yellow girl about 12 years of age, by the name of AILCEY, which I bought of James Wilson and Robert I.
Taylor, of this place. She is a girl of a bold countenance, tolerable straight hair, quite a large mouth, and a small flesh mold on one side or the other of her face, just by her nose; no other marks that I recollect. It is more than probable that she is now lurking in the neighborhood of Alexandria, as her mother lives with Major Wm. Reily of that place. The above reward will be paid for apprehend ing and securing the said girl so that I get her again.

United States of America,
Fifth Circuit, Virginia Diſtrict, May Term, 1803.

Under a Decree of the said Court, we the Commissioners will expose to public sale, for ready money, on the premises, at 12 o'clock on Friday the 19th day of August next,

That valuable and extenſive FARM, called Mount Salus, alias Millthorpe, lying in Fairfax county, on Difficult and Wolfe Trap runs; containing by deed 550 acres, and by ſurvey 673 acres. The manſion houſe is on a high, healthy and agreeable ſituation, convenient to which are ſprings of good water. The houſe is 40 by 18 feet, two rooms on a floor, with a nine feet paſſage and ſtair ſcae, 2 brick chimnies, with a fire place to each room, a piazza the whole length of the front, a cellar 40 by 18, walled with ſtone and divided into two apartments. There are ſeveral ſmall buildings, near the manſion houſe and garden. There are, alſo, a valuable merchant and griſt mill, ſaw mill, diſtillery, miller's houſe and overſeer's houſe. The mill houſe is 40 by 30, two ſtory high, half the lower ſtory of ſtone, the other part of wood, and covered with ſhingles. There are one pair of Burr and one pair of Cologne ſtones, three bolting cloths almoſt new, one ſcreen, all now in uſe in manufacturing wheat and grinding griſt. The ſtill houſe 40 by 30, one ſtory high, walls of ſtone and ſhingled roof, the floors planked, the upper laid for malting grain, and troughs fixed round the whole houſe conſtructed to carry water to every veſſel which may need it. Three ſtills and one boiler can be worked to advantage in the ſaid houſe. The waters of Wolfe Trap, on which the mill and ſaw mill ſtand, are conſtant ſtreams. The ſituation for country cuſtomers, or purchaſing wheat, is exceeded by none in the county or neighbourhood, not being more than 17 miles from Alexandria or George Town, where there are excellent markets for country produce of every deſcription, and about 19 miles from Waſhington. The land is fertile and productive, and the ſoil well adapted to receive improvement from the uſe of plaiſter of Paris. There are upwards of 1000 pannels of fence on the land, and about 160 or 170 acres of well timbered land belonging to the tract. There have been nearly 20 acres of timothy made, lying on Wolf Trap and Difficult runs; 50 acres more may be made at a ſmall expence. This farm enjoys many natural advantages, which are unneceſſary for us to mention, it being taken for granted that every perſon wiſhing to buy ſuch property will avail themſelves of an opportunity of viewing the premiſes, previous to the day of ſale, capt. James Wiley, reſiding near the land, will ſhew the premiſes, and alſo a plat of the ſurvey, which is left with him for the information of thoſe concerned.
